Compliance Required

Export Regulations Compliance and Controls are required of every exporter. Jurisdiction covers all U.S. exporters and their subsidiaries.

All exports are subject to the Export Administration Regulations (EAR), even when your product appears benign. There are screenings of the Denied Parties list, Specially Designated Terrorists (SDT) list, Unverified List, the Entities List and the Specially Designated Nationals (SDN) list to contend with.

When products are manufactured with certain technology or components that draw upon these areas of manufacture, they may infact be subject to further regulations. These areas of manufacture and distribution include:

nuclear materials • chemical or biological materials • toxins • electronics • computers , (including software and technology) telecommunications • information security lasers and sensors • navigation equipment • avionics marine and space or propulsion systems.

Since 1989, Evolutions in Business has been engaged in training corporations in Export Regulations, (EAR) and (ITAR) Compliance, Export Documentation, Letters of Credit and NAFTA. In that time, we have trained thousands of individuals from various corporations including, Brooks Automation, Lucent Technology, Raytheon, Simplex, Lockheed Martin, Timken, TYCO, Munters, just to name a few.
